HENRY'S
CONSTITUTION RENOVATOR, OR
BLOOD CLEANSER.

This medicine is known to the faculty as being the concentrated fluid extract of Sarsapa-illa unit-d with other valuable medicinal herbs, and is guaranteed as chemically pure.
Scurfula and Consumption.

This remedy is compounded expressly for purifying and cleansing the blood of all infants, going on to the fountain-head of disease. It extirpates Tumors, Consumption, Syphilis, Skin Eruptions, Salt Rheum, Boils, Rheumatism, Warts of Vitality, Scurfula.

We all know that the promiscuous "vaccination" indulged in during the late war bred the most villainous diseases. Vaccination was taken from the arms of many persons full of scurfulous sores.

Then of course the impurities of the scurfulous patient were absorbed in the blood of men otherwise without diseases, and both became infected alike. Men, women and children throughout all the West are most woefully diseased from this cause, and know not, until a few months ago, the origin of it.

Henry's Constitution Renova- tor
Relieves the Entire System of Pains and aches, enlivens the spirits, and sends new blood bounding through every vein.

It imparts a Sparkling Brightness to the Eyes, A Rosy Glow to the Cheek, A Ruby Tinge to the Lips, A Clearness to the Head, Brightness to the Complexion, Buoyancy to the Spirit, And Happiness on all Sides.

For all affections of the kidneys it is unsurpassed.
People have been rescued, as it were, from the very jaws of death, by a timely use of this great remedy.

EXTRACTS FROM VARIOUS LETTERS
"Doctor, I was vaccinated in the hospital.
Before that I had no skin disease. Until I had a bottle of your 'Constitution Renova-tor' sent me by Mr. Roper, of Columbia, Mo., I suffered tortures with running sores. Since I used two bottles I am all well except a small sore on the calf of my left leg, and that is getting well fast."

"This from a lady--'And now my skin is as clear and fair as a child's. My complexion, thanks to your 'Renovator,' is beautiful.'" "Yes, I may well say such relief was unknown to me before. Enclosed find five dollars for six bottles; two families here want to try it."

"I was very much troubled with scurfula.
Your remedy seems to be curing me fast. Send 4 bottles per Express. Patients are requested to correspond confidentially, and reply will be made by following mail."

"Doctor, enclosed find $5. Please send me a supply. Two families here want to try your Constitution Renovator."

We have not space for more of the above extracts, but you can ask your neighbor about the remedy. Every one has something good to say, as the following will testify.

E. PARKER.
Jan. 12, 1870, 38, if

The following beautiful description of the soul's disembodiment, is from "Yesterday, To-day and Forever," an epic poem by Bickersteth, first printed in England, three years ago:

From Life, Through Death, to Life.

Then there was silence; and my children kneelt Around my bed--our latest family prayer.
Listen--it is eleven striking. Then I whispered to my wife, "The time is short:
I hear the Spirit and the Bride say 'come,'
And Jesus answering, 'I come quickly,'" Listen.

And as she wiped the death dew from my forehead, She faltered, "He is very near," and I Could only faintly say, "Amen, amen."
And then my power of utterance was gone:
I beekoned and was speechless; I was more Than ankle deep in Jordan's icy stream.
My children stood upon its utmost verge, Gazing imploringly, persuasively, While the words, "Dear, dear father," now and then Would drop like dew from their unconscious lips.

My gentle wife, with love stronger than death, Was leaning on those cold gliding waves.
I heard them speaking but could make no sign;
I saw them weeping but could shed no tear; I felt their touch upon my flickering pulse, Heir breath upon my cheek, but I could give No answering pressure to the fond hands press'd

In mine. So rapidly the river-bed Shelved downward, I had pass'd or almost pass'd
Beyond the interchange of loving signs Into the very world of love itself.
The waters were about my knees; they washed My limbs, and still they deepen'd! Unaware I saw, I listen'd--who? He who speaks!
A Presence and a Voice. That Presence moved

Beside me like a cloud of glory; and That Voice was like a silver trumpet, saying, "Be of good cheer, it is I. Fear not."
And whether now the water were less deep, Or I was borne upon invisible arms, I know not; but methought my mortal robes Now only brushed the smoothly gliding stream, And like the edges of a sunset cloud, The beatific land before me lay.

One long last look behind me; gradually The figures faded on the shore of time, And, as the passing bell of midnight rang, One sob, one effort, and my spirit was free.

One of Nature's Noblemen.

My thoughts were far away from noblemen of any kind, as I stood among a throng of others in one of the elegant dry-goods establishment, situated on the fashionable promenade of our thriving metropolis.

I was one of the many who lined the polished counters, looking with admiring eyes on the fabrics so temptingly displayed. The half-hour's absence of the obliging clerk who could find the style required only in a distant part of the house, allowed me to be entertained with watching the stream of fair ones coming and departing.

And while I waited with mental criticism to amuse myself, an incident occurred a little out of the common observation of shop visitors.

A slight, small woman, pale, sad-eyed, and wearing faded black, came in with a new influx of visitors walking timidly and casting a half frightened glance at the piles of pretty stuffs.

A bright new material on the counter near where I stood caught her eye; she tremblingly inquired the price; when she was told, my sharp eyes saw a bill twisted in the quivering fingers with a perplexed troubled air, and my ears heard the murmured, "Annie will need ten yards."

"Will you take it?"
She lifted her pale, meek face and answered,
"I cannot; I did not think it would be so much!"

She was turning a way, when a gentleman, who like myself had been looking and listening, drew near, asking of the clerk:
"What does the lady want? I will wait upon her--you attend to the customers below."

The respectful manner in which he was obeyed, made me at once aware that he was the proprietor, and I was a little surprised at what followed.

"How many yards did you want, madam?"
"I can't take it, sir."
"I am not talking about that," said he, with a smile: "just answer my question."

He cut off more than she falter-ingly mentioned; and while he was packing it, she found voice to tell him that ill-health had forced her to relinquish the work with which she had obtained support for herself and her two fatherless children.
But the eldest girl, barely seventeen, was going to teach in a week, and she needed a dress to make her presentable.

He made no reply, taking in silence the little bill she offered--the very last of a small board--and from his own pocket added a greenback, the amount of which I could not see, slipped both between the cord which bound the parcel, and handed the parcel to her:

"There; tell your daughter a stranger wishes her success."

He walked hastily away to avoid her thanks, and the little woman looked, as she turned to depart, like one in a dream.

It was a simple act, unobtrusively, quietly done; and not a week before, that same gentleman had been pronounced uncharitable, because his name would not be put down to swell the list for aid toward some missionary scheme.

The Government and the Indians.

It is manifest from our Washington correspondence that government is vigilantly and resolutely attending to the case of "Lo, the poor Indian," in all of its phases.

Information has been received from Montana showing that the most vigorous measures have been adopted to enforce the Territorial criminal laws against the Blackfeet Indians, who last fall murdered Mal-comb Clark, a prominent citizen of the Territory, in his own house.

The murderers were indicted and a deputation was sent to Washington to urge on the President the policy of instructing the United States Marshall to execute, with whatever force should be necessary, the warrant of arrest. The duty of the Government was at once fully recognized by President Grant, but the question was not immediately determined as to whether civil process could be executed against the resistance of a whole Indian tribe. On December 22, however, the United States Marshall, accompanied by an adequate military force, left Helena for Teton river to demand from the Blackfeet Indians the murderers of Clark, and if necessary forcibly to arrest them.

This is the true policy for government, which has also, we understand, ordered military protection in aid of the development of the Arizona mines.

At the meeting of the Indian Commission with the Senate and House Committees on Indian Affairs, the Secretary of the Interior
